The Berkeley MBA Program is about innovative leadership, fresh thinking, positive impact, and an incredibly talented, diverse, collaborative community—one that forms an invaluable, lifelong network. As the faculty and staff work with you to achieve your professional goals, you will experience the highly personal nature of an MBA program like no other.

Developing Innovative Leaders who know how to put new ideas to work, and to do so responsibly

A rigorous general management curriculum gives you the breadth and depth of knowledge to be a leader in any type of organization.

Top-ranked career services give you access to the best jobs at the world’s most selective firms, and the tools and support you need to further your career or launch a new one.

Expertise of renowned faculty members who have been recognized worldwide for their innovative research and thought leadership.

A distinct culture of fresh thinking, embodying the core values of the Haas School: Question the Status Quo, Confidence Without Arrogance, Students Always, and Beyond Yourself.

An unparalleled location that leverages the innovative, energetic business ecosystem of the San Francisco Bay Area.

A worldwide alumni network of almost 40,000 Haas School graduates—and over 450,000 UC Berkeley graduates—that you can access from your first day as a Berkeley MBA student.

“Innovative leaders know how to create business opportunities from the major challenges facing the world. Berkeley-Haas has the proven ability to produce such leaders.”

Rich Lyons
Dean, Haas School of Business

Table of Contents:
5  Curriculum
7  Careers
9  Faculty
11  Community
13  Location
17  Alumni
18  Apply
As the second oldest business school in the United States, the Haas School of Business at the University of California, Berkeley is one of the world’s leading producers of novel ideas and knowledge in all areas of business. The school offers outstanding management education to about 2,200 undergraduate and graduate students each year.
The goal of the Berkeley MBA Program is to develop you as an innovative leader and teach you fundamental business concepts. We define innovative leadership as the ability to create value by putting new ideas into action in your organization, and to do so responsibly. This concept is based on skills that are valued in today’s marketplace by employers. You gain the knowledge to become a leader who defines what’s next—for our markets and for our societies. Berkeley-Haas is uniquely positioned to deliver such leaders.

The Path to Innovative Leadership built on timely and relevant skills

General Management Foundation

Your Haas education is anchored in the fundamentals of general management, including the latest theories and best practices in business—from accounting and finance to marketing and strategy. You learn to lead and manage an enterprise as a whole. The rigorous curriculum provides you with a basic framework of qualitative, quantitative, analytical, strategic, and problem-solving skills. You not only gain knowledge about best business practices, but also learn about the fundamental principles behind them—the “how” and the “why.”

Connected Leadership Curriculum

Innovative leadership is a connecting theme that runs through the entire Berkeley MBA Program—in both the required (core) and elective portions of the curriculum. The process starts with the careful selection of Berkeley MBA students who have demonstrated leadership and exemplify the school’s Defining Principles. In the core, you begin to learn the capabilities of the innovative leader, such as the skills to define opportunities.

Supportive Culture and Environment

A unique aspect of the Berkeley MBA leadership approach is the conscious use of the Haas School culture to shape how and what you learn. The school’s culture has been codified into four Defining Principles: Question the Status Quo, Confidence Without Attitude, Students Always, and Beyond Yourself. The Defining Principles are heavily influenced by the school’s location in the San Francisco Bay Area—the world’s epicenter for innovation and entrepreneurship. And they are shaped by the culture of UC Berkeley, a world-class research generator with a legendary atmosphere of fresh thinking.

“Collaboration is more than a buzzword—it involves a specific skillset that can be learned and developed.”

Brandi Pearce

Team Performance & Collaboration Lecturer

Learn more about the team performance curriculum at Haas.
Students in the Problem Finding, Problem Solving core course.
You will experience the Berkeley MBA Program’s rigorous, comprehensive curriculum in which you master the essential skills of management and leadership. After fulfilling the requirements of the core curriculum, you will find a high degree of flexibility to tailor your education to meet your own goals and interests through a wide variety of cutting-edge elective offerings and global opportunities.

A Rigorous, Flexible Curriculum
prepares you for every kind of leadership challenge

Core
The Berkeley MBA curriculum consists of 12 required core courses that provide the analytical tools and essential knowledge to lead effectively. For example, you will learn how to set direction in your strategy course, and how to manage complex projects and enterprises in your operations course. Throughout the core, you are taught the lessons of leading responsibly. Core courses, which make up about 40 percent of a typical student’s course of study, are usually all taken in the first year.

Electives
A central feature of the Berkeley MBA program is its level of flexibility that enables you to customize your studies according to your own goals. An impressive menu of elective courses comprises 60 percent of the curriculum, meaning you begin to design your own course of study in the first year of the program. You may choose from a wide variety of constantly evolving electives and dual degree offerings—from within the Haas School and from the wider university—as well as design courses of your own in conjunction with a faculty member.

Global Perspective
Global experience is an integral aspect of the Berkeley MBA experience. Global business is part of many courses, including courses with a specific focus on international topics, such as Business Strategies for Emerging Markets. You are encouraged to take advantage of international opportunities, such as spending a semester abroad, attending international seminars, planning study trips to other countries during breaks, or serving as a consultant through the International Business Development program.

Learning Beyond the Classroom
Providing students with hands-on exposure to real-world business situations is a key strength of the Berkeley MBA Program. You are required to take an applied innovation course that emphasizes innovative leadership. Additional experiential learning activities are required in many courses. You can also participate in numerous out-of-classroom opportunities that build upon your leadership skill set. Teamwork is emphasized throughout, including skill development and group coaching on how to be optimally effective in teams.

Helping Global Clients
Redefine How They Do Business
The school’s acclaimed International Business Development (IBD) course, which is one of the options for fulfilling the applied innovation requirement, sends an average of 120 students around the world each year to consult for a variety of firms and organizations.

haas.berkeley.edu/groups/IBD

View a comprehensive curriculum overview.
As part of the school’s acclaimed Haas@Work course in applied innovation, students work with top executives at major firms such as Visa, Cisco, Disney, Schrapt, Palmisano; Chase, Wells Fargo, Virgin America, PayPal, BlueCross, HP, and Fuseproject (pictured here). Haas@Work is just one of many options students may choose from to complete their applied innovation course requirement.

Learning by Doing
As a Berkeley MBA student, you will enlarge your innovative leadership skills by taking a required applied innovation course that will enable you to hone your leadership skills in a real-life setting.

- Haas@Work
  - Teams of students work with top executives at major firms to research and develop solutions for real-world business challenges. The best ideas are then selected by each firm’s executives for implementation.
- International Business Development
  - Student teams tackle business projects across the globe. After working on each project throughout the spring semester, the student teams then travel for three weeks for hands-on experience with their client organizations.
- Vertical Innovation
  - Students engage in innovative consulting projects, providing plans, creative ideas, and solutions for challenges unique to nonprofit organizations.
- Haas@Work
  - Teams of students work with top executives at major firms to research and develop solutions for real-world business challenges. The best ideas are then selected by each firm’s executives for implementation.
- International Business Development
  - Student teams tackle business projects across the globe. After working on each project throughout the spring semester, the student teams then travel for three weeks for hands-on experience with their client organizations.
- Vertical Innovation
  - Students engage in innovative consulting projects, providing plans, creative ideas, and solutions for challenges unique to nonprofit organizations.
- Haas@Work
  - Teams of students work with top executives at major firms to research and develop solutions for real-world business challenges. The best ideas are then selected by each firm’s executives for implementation.
- International Business Development
  - Student teams tackle business projects across the globe. After working on each project throughout the spring semester, the student teams then travel for three weeks for hands-on experience with their client organizations.
- Vertical Innovation
  - Students engage in innovative consulting projects, providing plans, creative ideas, and solutions for challenges unique to nonprofit organizations.

For more information, visit mba.haas.berkeley.edu/academics/applied-innovation.html
Opening Doors to Future Success with the tools and connections that will set you apart

An Impressive Array of Services
The school’s key location and deep ties to global firms provide you the tools and connections you need to launch the next stage of your career. The Haas School offers access to employers through multiple channels. On-campus interviews and corporate presentations are popular forums for presenting yourself to a prospective employer. The Haas School’s Career Management Group facilitates hundreds of on-campus interview opportunities for positions spanning the globe and over a thousand electronic, job postings specifically targeting Berkeley MBA students each year. In addition, you are given the opportunity to interact with hiring managers and recruiters in more informal ways, including industry firm nights, career panels, corporate visits, alumni mixers, and job fairs.

A Personal Approach
The school’s small MBA class size allows career advisors to offer a personalized, hands-on approach to your career search. The goal of the Career Management Group is to provide you with resources and opportunities to successfully match your skills and interests with an employer. The Career Management Group also offers a broad range of seminars, programs, and services from experienced advisors, coaches, managers, and practitioners at all stages of the career planning process.

“[The Career Management Group] is fantastic. Even before classes started, a second-year career coach reached out to me. All of the assistance I got has inspired me to become a career coach in my second year.” - Steven Weddle, MBA 15

When the world’s most selective organizations seek new, innovative talent, they turn to Berkeley-Haas. Employers seek out Berkeley MBA students because they demonstrate not only a mastery of powerful quantitative and management tools, but also a solid understanding of best practices for the changing technological, global, and human dimensions of business.
Move from Coast to Coast
Alumni of the Berkeley MBA Program work all across the country, with many ending up in New York. Pictured: Former McKinsey & Co. Associate Will Wright, MBA 09; Deloitte Manager Amy Ye, MBA 09; American Express Director Nick Jadamski, MBA 10; Unilever Brand Manager Silvia Lacayo, MBA 09; and Etsy Director of Support Operations JLT Shah, MBA 08.

Launch Your Company
Brett Wilson, John Hughes, and Mark Rotblat (not pictured), all MBA 07, started TubeMogul after meeting in an entrepreneurship class at Haas. Since then, the company has grown to 200 employees in 11 locations around the globe, and its online video advertising platform has been used by such giants as Unilever, Microsoft, and Sony Pictures.

Create the Job of Your Dreams
Jennifer Lieberman, MBA/MPH 01, founder & director of the Kaiser Permanente Innovation Center, maps out the future of health care for one of the nation’s biggest and most innovative providers.

Cross Borders
Full-time Berkeley MBA graduates take their careers around the world. Pictured: London alumni Amazon Manager Helen Fl, MBA 08; Skype Director of Business Development Jöker Decot, MBA 07; Frog Capital Principal John Duizing, MBA 08; and Yahoo Manager Shannon Riley, MBA 12.
Haas School faculty members are explorers and discoverers, seeking new ideas and insights at the frontiers of knowledge. They are internationally recognized leaders in the study of the economic, social, political, and technological forces shaping global markets today. Berkeley-Haas faculty members play an active role in national and international business communities, serving as consultants, board members, and speakers at major business conferences and seminars.

Passionate Scholars and Teachers at the forefront of new ideas

A Roster of Experienced Thinkers and Leaders
Several faculty members are authors of widely used textbooks in marketing, economics, and management. Severin Borenstein is a nearly constant presence in the national media explaining the ups and downs of the nation’s energy markets. Michael Katz is a leading thinker and strategist in telecommunications policy. John Morgan and Teck Ho are actively utilizing behavioral and experimental economics to make advances in understanding strategic decision-making. Jennifer Chatman is a top authority on organizational culture and post-merger integration. And David Tice is a widely sought expert in the field of innovation and knowledge management.

Real-World Insights from Industry Practitioners
The MBA program also makes creative use of experienced practitioners from industry in its classes as adjunct professors and lecturers. For example, Wall Street veteran Peter Goodson, former partner of private equity firm Clayton, Dubilier & Rice, Inc., teaches the Mergers and Acquisitions course. Twitter Co-founder Biz Stone shares his experiences and insights with Berkeley MBA students as an executive fellow at the Haas School.

Learn more about our dedication to teaching excellence.

A Tradition of Teaching Excellence
The cornerstone of the entire Berkeley MBA Program is its distinguished faculty members and the high quality of their courses. At Haas, teaching excellence is a high priority. In the Berkeley MBA classroom, faculty members emphasize both theory and practice by using a variety of teaching methods. Case studies, seminars, simulations, guest speakers, and group projects all facilitate the learning process. Classroom learning is enhanced by numerous opportunities to apply the lessons to real-world situations.
Professor Nancy Wallace plays a major role in real estate policy, advising the U.S. Treasury and Federal Reserve on monitoring economic risk. She uses real-life cases to help students understand the subtleties of deal-structuring, as well as the entrepreneurial nature of real estate, which has "an enormous need for innovation in all kinds of areas, from managing energy to creating new financial instruments."

Kristiana Raube
Adjunct Professor and Executive Director
Haas professional faculty members such as Dr. Kristiana Raube share expert business and leadership knowledge with Berkeley MBA students. In addition to serving as executive director of the International Business Development Program at Berkeley Haas, Raube is a renowned researcher and teacher in the area of health management who has worked to increase health management capacity through executive education and program development in the U.S. and around the world.
Guided by four Defining Principles, the distinctive Berkeley-Haas culture is integral to shaping its MBA students as they learn how to be innovative leaders. Berkeley-Haas students question the status quo, project confidence without attitude, think beyond themselves, and act as students always. These attributes combine to create an environment conducive to teamwork, collaboration, and involvement. Students are members of a close-knit, supportive peer network that draws on both shared experiences and a diversity of ideas and backgrounds to build bonds that last a lifetime.

A Collaborative Culture

cultivates a unique, dynamic community

A Diversity of Experiences
Among the school’s greatest assets is the community of fellow students, who form a lifelong network of friends and professional contacts. The relatively small size of the MBA program (only 240 students enroll in each entering class) encourages students to get to know all members of their class. Students represent a wide range of ethnic backgrounds, religious affiliations, and sexual orientations. Over one third of the students are from outside the United States, representing over 40 countries.

Involvement in a Dynamic Community
The diverse and outgoing nature of the Berkeley-Haas culture translates to a vibrant, thriving community of students, alumni, faculty, and staff. From networking mixers to annual conferences, guest speakers to intramural sports competitions, there’s always something happening here. At Haas, virtually everyone gets involved by joining clubs, doing community service, managing major conferences, participating in case competitions, and organizing trips for fellow students.

Going Above and Beyond
UC Berkeley has a long tradition of social responsibility and a commitment to creating a better world. In keeping with that spirit, Berkeley MBA students get involved to make a difference. Almost the entire MBA class participates in the many events that are a part of the Challenge for Charity—talent shows, charity auctions, and sports competitions that help raise money for the Special Olympics and other organizations. Many Berkeley MBA students also volunteer as mentors for underresourced middle school and high school students through the Young Entrepreneurs at Haas (YEAH) program.

Beyond Themselves
Berkeley-Haas students harness their collaborative culture in a wide variety of ways, including to benefit Bay Area nonprofits and charities. During orientation week, for example, Berkeley MBA students spend a morning volunteering at the Alameda Point Collaborative, an organization that aims to end homelessness by providing housing and teaching valuable life skills.
Confidence Without Attitude

“My time at Haas allowed me to explore and discover my own leadership style. Classes like Negotiations and Power & Politics helped me develop my ability to influence and lead people in a thoughtful, collaborative way that I’m comfortable with.”

Alma Rico, MBA 14
Chief Operating Officer, Alpha Public Schools, San Jose, California
Internship: Alpha Public Schools, San Jose, California
Previous degree: BS, Electrical Engineering & Computer Science, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Massachusetts
Job prior to Haas: Consultant, PA Consulting Group, Alexandria, Virginia

Students Always

“I wanted to go to a business school where everyone is eager to learn, not just to compete.”

Megan Bradfield, MBA 15
Internship: Morgan Stanley, San Francisco, California
Previous degree: BA, Philosophy & Religion, Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa
Job prior to Haas: Program Director, ELCA Global Mission, Chicago, Illinois

Beyond Yourself

“Recruiting in the consulting sector is rough; rejection is a blow to your confidence. But the Career Coaches, alumni and my classmates were there to help me fine-tune my approach and learn from my mistakes. The result is an internship with Deloitte that I am very excited about.”

Chasen Goudeau, MBA 15
Strategy Advisor, Shell, London, England
Previous degrees: BPhil, Politics & Economics, Oxford University, England
Job prior to Haas: Commercial Advisor, Production Division, BP plc, Muscat, Oman

Question the Status Quo

“Questioning the Status Quo is huge for me. In the oil and gas sector, dominated as it is by big companies, innovation can be challenging. But Berkeley-Haas has taught me how to be an innovative leader in any setting. I look forward to being an ‘intrapreneur’ at Shell.”

Tom Spooner, MBA 14
Strategy Advisor, Shell, London, England
Previous degree: BPhil, Politics & Economics, Oxford University, England
Job prior to Haas: Commercial Advisor, Production Division, BP plc, Muscat, Oman
The Haas School’s location in the San Francisco Bay Area is a profound asset, a business ecosystem of innovation and entrepreneurship that is unrivaled anywhere. And it defines the people we attract, the education we deliver, and the leaders we produce. Once you arrive, you will quickly understand how the University of California, Berkeley—one of the world’s top universities—both shapes and is shaped by the forces of innovation in the Bay Area. This is a place that continues to move knowledge forward, looking for and embracing what comes next.

The Perfect Location
where natural beauty meets boundless opportunity

Home to Tomorrow’s Industries
Widely recognized as the heart of the global technology industry, a hotbed for venture capital, and the center of the U.S. wine market, the Bay Area is also the new hub for the up-and-coming clean energy and biotechnology industries. In addition to serving as a launch pad for some of the world’s most legendary startups—Google, LinkedIn, Facebook and Twitter among them—the Bay Area is also headquarters to a wide range of established Fortune 500 companies and other successful firms such as Intel, Charles Schwab, Gap, Adobe, Clorox, Pfizer, Genentech, and Chevron.

A Legendary Campus Setting
The Berkeley campus is perched on a hillside; its upper reaches are devoted to a vast nature preserve—excellent for a run or a contemplative walk with postcard views of San Francisco, the Golden Gate Bridge, and the Pacific Ocean beyond. Surrounding the campus is the legendary city of Berkeley, the quintessential university town, complete with a multitude of coffee houses, shops, churches, theaters, world-famous gourmet restaurants, charming neighborhoods, beautiful gardens, and some of the best bookstores anywhere.

A Great Place to Learn and Play
The San Francisco Bay Area is perennially designated the world’s most popular tourist destination—and for good reason. The area’s stunning natural beauty and seductively benign weather complement an atmosphere charged with a worldly sophistication and a distinctive openness to new ways of thinking.

“I love being able to go just a little way off campus and find myself on a trail in Tilden Park, where I might just be chased by a wild turkey.”

– Megan Bradfield, MBA 15

The Bay Area is one of the few places on earth where countless corporate powerhouses are nestled among some of the world’s most famous landscapes and outdoor playgrounds. Only an hour from Berkeley, you can cruise through the alluring wine country of Napa and Sonoma counties. Or visit one of the many open beaches or picturesque seaside towns dotting the Pacific coastline, including Big Sur, Carmel-by-the-Sea, and Mendocino. Only three hours from campus, explore Yosemite National Park, with its exquisite glacier-carved valley of towering waterfalls and granite mountains, or ski the world-famous Olympic runs at Lake Tahoe.
The San Francisco Bay Area features a wealth of diversity among its breathtaking landscapes and energetic people. Berkeley-Haas students reflect the global nature of the region, coming from all corners of the world. Pictured below (left to right) are Wolfgang Vanner of Austria, Lina Cardozo Medina of Colombia, Erica Butow of Brazil, and Alberto Tempia Bonda of Italy, all MBA 14.
An important part of choosing a business school is the strength of the larger university to which you will be forever linked. In addition to attending one of the premier business schools in the world, Berkeley MBA students earn a degree from a university whose name and reputation open doors around the globe. The mission of the University of California is to excel in research, teaching, and public service. Over the decades, this mission has developed a culture at UC Berkeley that stimulates greatness.

The Berkeley Experience
a university second to none

A Distinguished Record
The Berkeley MBA Program draws on the incredible breadth and depth of UC Berkeley, whose graduate programs are consistently ranked among the best in the world, and whose undergraduate programs are among the most selective. The proof is in the university’s distinguished record of Nobel level scholarship, constant innovation, a concern for the betterment of our world, and consistently high rankings of its schools and departments—the Haas School among them.

A History of Path-Bending Innovation
Since its founding in 1868, UC Berkeley has grown with the rapidly expanding population of California and has responded to the educational needs of the developing state. By the 1930s, research at UC Berkeley burgeoned in nuclear physics, chemistry, and biology, leading to the development of the first cyclotron, the isolation of the human polio virus, and the discovery of all the artificial elements heavier than uranium, including Berkelium and Californium.

Explore the Opportunities
You are encouraged to supplement business courses with graduate classes outside the business school in areas ranging from engineering, law, and urban planning to foreign languages, international area studies, and public policy. In addition, special interdisciplinary opportunities within the Berkeley community enable you to learn from top experts in almost every field. Joint courses with students in law, engineering, information systems, and public health enhance the educational experience of many MBA students.

A Multi-disciplinary Community
Berkeley MBA students involved in the Berkeley Energy and Resources Collaborative (BERC) work with scientists at Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory in the CleanTech to Market experiential course to evaluate the commercial viability of new technologies, such as a novel device the size of a stick of gum that harvests energy from machinery vibrations to run wireless sensors (pictured left).
UC Berkeley Academic and Faculty Distinctions

- Ranked the #1 public university in the U.S. for 17th year in a row by U.S. News & World Report
- The leading institution in awarding doctoral degrees to minorities and women
- 22 Nobel Prize laureates (including Haas professors Oliver Williamson and John Harsanyi)
- 224 American Association for the Advancement of Science Fellows
- 230 American Academy of Arts and Sciences Fellows
- 357 Guggenheim Fellows
- 32 MacArthur Fellows
- 94 National Academy of Engineering Awards
- 4 Pulitzer Prizes
- 26 National Medal of Science Awards
- 125 Sloan Fellows
- 5 Wolf Prizes
- 144 National Academy of Sciences Awards

Concurrent Degree Options

The Haas School offers concurrent degree programs in areas of special interest to business professionals, including the following:

- JD/MBA Program
- MBA/MPH Program in Health Management
- MBA/MA Program in International and Area Studies

For more information, visit mba.haas.berkeley.edu/academics/concurrentdegrees.html.
From your first day as a Berkeley MBA student, you are able to leverage the power of one of the most supportive and accessible professional networks. Almost 40,000 Haas School graduates—and over 450,000 UC Berkeley graduates—are connected by a robust alumni network that includes career resources, online communities, and local alumni chapters in major cities around the globe.

Connecting You to the World through a robust, global alumni network

Endless Networking Opportunities

With alumni chapters in over 46 countries all over the world, including more than 33 chapters in the U.S., there are Haas alumni events happening an average of five out of seven days each week all over the world. Whether in Shanghai, Santiago, London, or New York, you will have immediate access to local alumni who get together often to strengthen their personal and professional contacts at chapter and regional gatherings. In addition, a variety of online and in-person alumni groups and clubs formed around special interests—from biotech and real-estate to business in greater China—can provide you with insights and contacts.

Lifetime Tools & Resources

As a graduate of the Berkeley MBA Program, you will not only continue to have full access to all networking tools, you will also enjoy a full menu of career services, as well as personal development and educational resources.

“I started using the Haas Alumni Network before classes even started. I reached out to an alum who works at Microsoft to learn more about the company. When my interest shifted to Apple, a staff member in the Alumni Relations Office connected me with someone there. It is great to meet alums who are so eager to help students.”

- Amara Aigbedion, MBA 13

Pictured left: A visit to South Africa’s Chobe National Park on a trek led by Michael Nurick and Nivani Govinder, both MBA ’14.
Admission Criteria
Admission to the Berkeley MBA Program is based on a combination of factors, including the following:

• Professional Experience—The quality of an MBA program is immeasurably enhanced by the real-world business experience that students bring to the classroom. Most of our students have two or more years of full-time professional work experience following the completion of their undergraduate degree. We are also interested in the progression and milestones of your career, as well as your supervisor’s assessment of your value as an employee and potential as a leader.

• Academic Aptitude—In reviewing your transcripts, we take into account your choice of coursework, the rigor of your academic institutions, and your grade point average (GPA). Although we do not have a minimum requirement, a GPA of B (3.0) or better is generally the standard for serious consideration. All applicants should have completed, at a minimum, a college-level mathematics or statistics course.

• Exams—The GMAT or GRE is required for all applicants. Applicants who received their university degrees in countries other than the U.S., the UK, Australia, or English-speaking Canada are also required to take the TOEFL or IELTS exams.

• Personal Qualities—We seek applicants who represent the school’s four Defining Principles: Question the Status Quo, Confidence Without Attitude, Students Always, and Beyond Yourself.

Visit mba.haas.berkeley.edu for a complete list of admissions criteria and application requirements, as well as information pertaining to concurrent degree program admissions.

Financial Aid
Approximately 70 percent of Haas students receive some form of financial assistance, including scholarships and loans. Over $5 million in scholarship funding is awarded each year, providing gift aid to over 40 percent of students. All admitted students can apply for scholarships after admission. Scholarships are based on criteria such as merit, industry, commitment to diversity, and financial need. For complete financial aid and tuition information, visit haas.berkeley.edu/mba/finance.

Learn More
The best way to know what it’s really like to be a Berkeley MBA student is to come visit, meet students and faculty, and observe a class. We strongly encourage this investment of your time to help you decide if the program is a good fit for you. For details on how we make it easy for you to explore Haas, visit mba.haas.berkeley.edu/admissions/visit.html.

For those who can’t make it to campus, the Full-time MBA Admissions office also sponsors off-campus information sessions and participates in events around the world. You can also participate in chats hosted by MBA admissions throughout the year.

Consortium for Graduate Study in Management
The Haas School of Business is a proud member of The Consortium for Graduate Study in Management. An alliance of leading American business schools and some of our country’s top corporations, The Consortium seeks to enhance diversity in business education and leadership by helping to reduce the serious underrepresentation of African Americans, Hispanic Americans and Native Americans in both member schools’ enrollments and the ranks of management. Candidates who apply and are accepted to the Berkeley MBA Program through The Consortium are considered for full-tuition, merit-based fellowships and benefit from ongoing professional development opportunities.

Visit mba.haas.berkeley.edu/admissions/ consortium.html.

Haas Student Ambassadors
Haas Student Ambassadors (HSA) are the student voice within the Full-time Program Admissions Office. HSAs offer unique, real-life perspectives about being enrolled in the Berkeley MBA Program. To participate in one of the group’s daily information sessions during the school year, or for more information during any stage of the application process, contact an HSA member at hsa@haas.berkeley.edu.
Learn more about the Full-time Berkeley MBA Program on our program’s Facebook page: www.facebook.com/haasmbaadmissions